EXPERIENCE

Research Assistant

Indiana University Bloomington

Aug. 2023 - Now

- Privacy Compliance of Generative AI: Conducting research on privacy implications in generative AI tools, focusing on investigating and analyzing real-world applications' privacy compliance, and ultimately aiming to develop strategies to ensure adherence to privacy regulations.

Research Intern

S2W Inc., South Korea

Feb. 2022 - June. 2023

- Language Model Pre-training: Pre-train the Darkweb language model and the security language model and apply them to many practical use cases, such as noteworthy forum thread detection, security-related Named Entity Recognition (NER), etc.
- NFT Scam Detection: Propose a scam detection framework based on Graph Neural Network (GNN). The model is designed to effectively capture complex NFT transaction contexts and social contexts (user transaction relationships).
- Security Event Detection in Twitter: Propose a contrastive learning-based security event detection framework that generates the representation of each tweet and applies the DBSCAN to cluster the tweets to identify the security-related events.

Research Assistant

KAIST, South Korea

May. 2020 - Dec. 2021

- Fake News Detection: Propose an advanced fake news detection methods integrating multi-level social context and temporal user engagement data. Overcame challenges in integrating these complex data sources by developing Hetero-SCAN, a novel framework for enhanced end-to-end news representation.

Undergraduate Individual Research Intern

Network and System Security Lab

KAIST, South Korea

June. 2019 - Dec. 2019

- Studied Software-defined Network (SDN) and implemented hardware-based networking scheduler in the NetFPGA using Verilog.
